OVERVIEW

Bermuda is one of the world's leading financial centres with a long history of providing sophisticated financial and professional services to international businesses.

The Island has particularly strong (re)insurance, investment fund and trusts sectors which are supported by a world-class advisory and financial services infrastructure, including a sophisticated legal system, robust regulatory framework, speed-to-market capability, business-friendly government, simple tax regime, close proximity to the US and highly- skilled workforce.

An independent regulatory body, the Bermuda Monetary Authority, works closely with the business sector to create a legal environment conducive to modern commercial transactions. Legislation is constantly under review to ensure the jurisdiction's nimbleness and efficiency. Bermuda was selected in the first wave of three countries to be assessed in respect to the EU Solvency II Directive (along with Switzerland and Japan) and is now fully equivalent. This formal recognition means that Bermuda's commercial (re) insurers and insurance groups are not disadvantaged when competing for, and writing, business in the EU. Solvency II equivalence also means that EU Member States recognise Bermuda as the group supervisor for its insurance groups that operate in the EU.

On 1 October 2016, the Limited Liability Company Act (LLC) became operative. Bermuda's legislation has been modelled on the Delaware LLC and consequently provides a welcome degree of familiarity to clients and advisers. The LLC has undoubtedly been of great interest to clients in the investment management/ funds sector.

Bermuda boasts a tradition of transparency and regulatory effectiveness, complying with the highest of worldwide standards on anti-money laundering and financial crimes as reported in the 2016 International Narcotics Control Strategy Report (US Dept. of State). The Island's reputation is further enhanced due to it being the first, and currently the only, offshore jurisdiction to be granted 'Qualified Jurisdiction status' by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, the US standard-setting and regulatory support organisation, its membership in the International Organisation of Securities Commissions and its inclusion on the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development's (OECD) 'White List' of approved jurisdictions. Bermuda also has 44 Tax Information Exchange Agreements in place and a Level 2 Inter-Governmental Agreement signed with the United States for upcoming FATCA requirements.

The US State Department has rated Bermuda in its "lowest risk" category for national security, money laundering and financial system risk.

Bermuda's role in the global market has become increasingly crucial over the last 20 years. Today, it is the leading global domicile for insurance-linked securities topping with $24.5 billion as of 30 June 2017.

Bermuda-based commercial carriers represent the second-largest insurance hub outside London and are the leading providers of catastrophe reinsurance in the world. Bermuda's reinsurance market fulfills a critical role internationally in the wake of the most devastating and costly natural disasters by helping to rebuild communities and refuel economies.

Since 2000, the market has contributed more than $50 billion towards US catastrophe losses, including 10 per cent of the World Trade Centre attack claims, a third of liabilities incurred during 2005's Hurricane Katrina and hurricanes Rita and Wilma, over $2.5 billion following Superstorm Sandy and billions in claims for earthquakes in New Zealand, Chile and Japan. Bermuda's global insurers and reinsurers are funding an estimated quarter or more of approximately $100 billion in aggregate insured losses from the recent record setting hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria.

In addition, the Island continues to develop alternative forms of risk financing, such as insurance-linked securities (ILS) and collateralised reinsurance to respond to major market events.

Our Bermuda office has just about 100 staff with 38 lawyers. Our practice emphasises expertise in contentious and non-contentious matters related to (re)insurance, funds, banking, aircraft, shipping, manufacturing, energy, property, telecom, technology and wealth industries.
